By: Jacky Murphy | @NeonNettle on 23rd January 2017 @ 1.27pm

ISIS leader, Abu Bakr Al-Baghdadi, has been wounded and captured following a series of airstrikes

Baghdadi was allegedly killed on 26 October 2019.

Proper, independent DNA testing of 'Baghdadi' was impossible.

DNA testing can take several days or weeks.

'Baghdadi' was allegedly killed nowhere near a forensic lab.

The 'body' was buried at sea within a few hours of the alleged attack.

Donald Trump has accomplished no less than the 6th killing of Al-Baghdadi

From 'The Multiple Deaths of Boogeyman al-Baghdadi'

Al-Baghdadi was 'found dead in a hole in the ground inside a house' in 2010, per Reuters

Al-Baghdadi was 'killed in a US airstrike' in 2013

Al-Baghdadi was 'killed in a US drone strike' in April 2015

Al-Baghdadi was 'killed in a US airstrike in Raqqa' in June 2016

Al-Baghdadi was 'killed in a Russian air strike in Raqqa' on 16 June 2017

Mossad asset Rita Katz of SITE, tho, was able to release a 'video of Al-Baghdadi' in April 2019

Yet, in 2007 Reuters quoted US Brigadier General Kevin Bergner as saying al-Baghdadi "did not exist", and the New York Times had a similar quote in 2007 from a 'military spokesman'.

Brabantian 27 October 2019 at 04:10 comments -

Trump has announced an operation where 'ISIS leader Al-Baghdadi has been killed'

What about those previous times Al-Baghdadi was 'killed' and also 'severely wounded'?

They were popular stories so I suppose they thought, why not do it again

If Barack Obama can kill a bin Laden who died a decade earlier, why can't Trump kill Al-Baghdadi again, that seems fair

With Islamic State head Dr Abu Bakr Al Baghdadi widely thought to have been Israeli Mossad officer, Simon Elliot - Shimon Elliot - Sham'oun Ayloot

Maybe Rita Kitz of SITE will soon 'find' Al-Baghdadi's 'final video message'? Perhaps Sham'oun Ayloot is recording that right now at Mossad video hq?

As often pointed out, Baghdadi does look a lot like one of the guys in the photos of those who met with the late US Senator John McCain in his 'Syria moderate rebel freedom fighter' meetings

We're told tho by the usual suspects in the confusion brigade that these widely-seen photos are 'fake'

Wasn't ISIS really the US-backed 'Israeli Special Intelligence Services'?

- Not about the oil. I lived in Syria 2 decades ago, and even then, the govt was openly worried because Syria's meager oils reserves were close to being depleted and how would they underwrite their economy??
US is there to steal LAND for ISRAEL and to make sure Israel's biggest regional rivals and opponents are vanquished so they can reign supreme.
Syria's oil is negligible and even its water is now kaput, due to Turkey's dams cutting their supply by 90%

Anything to keep the unwashed masses distracted and confused, whilst Pax Judaica plays out their few remaining remaining moves on the chess board of their upcoming Global Slave State.

Too bad all the useful idiots in the [faux] governments and the MSM [lie apparatus] can't figure out that once that slave state is achieved, they will ALL be dispensed with (killed) -- just like everyone else.

The Twitter accounts were found to be Sock Puppets and their origination and domain addresses registered with the Home Office and other UK Government shells.

Batches of accounts were then appropriated to Saudi. So, beyond the fake Twitter accounts, the main support to ISIS: financial, logistics, political and hardware came from the US, UK, Turkey, Israel, Australia, Saudi and Qatar.

As for the oil. Saudi oil is a mere smoke screen. Oil is abundant and not a fossil fuel as we have been led to believe.

Another propagated lie by the ruling class. The Rockefeller Institute being instrumental in this.

Rather than the addiction to oil being the issue. Colonisation of other countries and stealing their wealth and resources seems more pertinent.

Perhaps the addiction to war and evil intentions is a bit more pressing than 'fueling' yet another fabrication.

Only moments before, he had been looking out his November wardrobe...he'd counted ten thongs in his underwear drawer --eleven with the OCT pair that had never left his posterior for well-on 27 days.

Something wasn't adding up in the down-there region.

True, there had been that crazy camel-tipping party last Thanksgiving, yet he'd been careful to retrieve all his belongings from the young goatherd boy's tent before daybreak. Might the lad have snagged his knickers as a souvenir? Nah, too groaty, even by desert standards.

He recalled Al Qaeda's panty-raid in April. But as always, they'd made a beeline for the boys with boxers.

Just then an all-too familiar THUCKA-THUCKA reverberated off in the distant night sky. He felt his butt-cheeks clench reflexively against the matted midnight-black thong. THUCKA-THUCKA.

Muttering a half-curse, half-prayer under his breath, Huz Yo Bag Dadi could only hope the Washington Post would eulogize his reputation for scrupulous scholarship while short-shrifting the acres of lopped heads. Stranger things had happened.

The THUCKA-THUCKAs grew louder...
